

Table of Contents

Chapter 1: Why Technical Writing?	1
What is a Technical Writer?	1
What do they Write?	2
Who Reads the Information?	2
Where are the Jobs?	2
Independent, or Employee?	3
Example: Two Different Writers	3
Chapter 2: Getting a Foot in the Door	5
What do you Need?	5
Academic Background	5
Writing Ability	6
Computer Literacy	6
Find Your Specialty	6
Start Learning Now	7
Example: Gearing up for a Job Change	7
Chapter 3: Getting the Samples	9
Gather Writing Samples	9
From your Job	9
From your Life	10
Create Samples	10
Electronic or Paper?	11
Electronic Portfolios	11
Paper Portfolios	12
Example: Pulling Together a Portfolio	12
Create a Positive Arrangement	13
Presenting your Portfolio	13
At the Interview	14
Example: Follow their Lead	14

Respect a Company's Privacy	15
Chapter 4: Job Hunting	17
Your Resume	17
Networking	18
Using Agencies	18
The Internet	19
Small Companies	20
Example: Networking in your Daily Life	20
Chapter 5: Skills to Know	21
Stay Organized	21
Example: Why Good Organization Pays off	22
Stay on Track	22
Example: Keep your Meeting on Track	23
Example: Keep your Document on Track	23
Who is Your Audience?	24
Example: Middle School Audience	24
Example: One Product, Three Readers	24
What Do They Want?	25
Example: One Clear Objective	25
Example: Three Different Objectives	25
A Final Check: Did you Give them what they Needed?	26
Example: I Don't Understand it; I Hope Someone Else Does	26
Chapter 6: Information Delivery	27
Delivery Options	27
Factors to Consider	28
Example: Our Reader in the Garage	28
Example: Our Multi-tasking Reader	29
Example: The Spinning Wheel	29
Keep Yourself Current	29
Chapter 7: Down the Road	31
Industry Specialization	31
Related Career Paths	31
Teaching	32
Becoming Independent	32
Glossary	35